The account set forth by a customer for use in the service providing by the site shall belong to this specific customer alone.

Any rights of the customer to access the service shall not be exercised jointly with any third party, lent or assigned to any third party, succeeded by any party, pawned to anyone, or subjected to any other similar disposition.

The site shall be able to regard all actions on any account use as actions of the account holder in person.

The customer shall be liable for any damages caused by any failure to manage the account or password, including any use by any third party, etc.

In the event a customer recognizes that his/her own account has or may have been used by any third party, the customer shall notify the site of the possibility and follow any instruction from the site.

In the event the site judges a customer to have violated the terms, the site shall be able to suspend or delete the customer's account without any prior notice.

A customer's rights to use the service shall be terminated at the time his/her account has been deleted for whatever reason.

Should a customer delete his/her account by mistake, the account may not be recovered in principle.

- Article 4. User Responsibility

- The value of bitcoin may be influenced greatly by the market.

The customer shall use the service at his/her own responsibility and take full responsibility for all of his/her actions and all the resulting outcomes.

The customer shall understand that there are various risks related to the use of the service, for example without limitation, the risk resulting from a rate change and the risk of loss.

He/she shall use the site at his/her own discretion and responsibility.

The site shall be able to take any action that is judged by the site to be necessary and appropriate in the event the site believes that a customer is using the site in violation of the terms and the site user policy. However, the site takes no obligation to prevent or correct such a violation.

When a customer uses bitcoin in the service, its exchange rate shall be determined by the market rate.

The site shall take no responsibility whatsoever for any reason other than an intentional act or gross negligence.

Also, the customer shall agree in advance that any wager that has been fixed may not be revoked.

The customer shall be held liable for any damages, including legal fees incurred directly or indirectly by the site resulting from the customer's use of the service and any claims filed by a third party with the site concerning the customer's use of the service.
